SUNDAY CLOSING AT CHICAGO.

There is no doubt that the great mass of those who advocate the closing of the World's fair to visitors on Sundays are entirely siscere. Reverence for the Sabbath respect for the faith and opinions of relig- strangers to hear it. ious people is a badge of the American character. It is a long while off when the Chicago international exhibition will be held, and it seems somewhat premature to discuss the details of the programme; but it is to be remembered that a considerable period is necessary in which to properly advertise the matter abroad, and in this view any question that may come up in future can hardly be said to be untimely now. And speaking of advertising the fair abroad, it stands to reason that any concession that may be made to for-eign sentiment not inconsistent with justice and right ought to be freely yielded. If the question were one like opening a race-track, or conducting a bull-fight, or even having a great baseball match, it might be easily determined. But outside of a church it would be difficult to find a more decorus, peace-inspiring, mindelevating place for Sunday attendance than an exposition ground; and when we think how much more profitably and pleasurably time may be spent at such a spot than at the usual urban and suburban resorts of a Canuck bas to pay for the same goods, or a great city, the matter receives itself very greaser in Mexico.

One of the toughest things the protec tionists have to answer is the charge that goods manufactured in this country are sold in foreign markets, or for export, cheaper toan home consumers can buy them. At first they denied that it was true, but on being confronted with the proofs they are finally compelled to take refuge in the argument that the thing alleged is done to secure foreign trade, and that the prices demanded are about what the home-consumer would have to pay the manufacturer abroad if there were no duty. The Manufacturer, a protection organ, makes use of this argument, in effect, and the New York Times quoting therefrom

Eastern papers inform us that the big gest combination ever made in the iron and steel business in this country was organized in Boston on the 3d instant, under the name of the National Pipe and Tube Co. Some weeks ago this concern was incorporated in New Jersey with a capital stock of $10,000 for the purpose of deceiving the public pending the consummation of the scheme, but now it has been increased to $11,500,000. In the combine are the National world, the Republic iron works of Pittsburg, the Monongabela furnace company of Pennsylvania, and the Boston iron and steel company.
